Mercy Connect promotes diversity and tolerance across the organisation, and people from all walks of life and cultural backgrounds are welcome. In particular, Mercy Connect:

- promotes the cultural safety, participation and empowerment of Aboriginal children

- ensures that children with a disability are safe and can participate equally
- ensure the needs of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex children and young people are acknowledged and supported through our services and supports

Staff and volunteers

This policy guides staff and volunteers on how to behave with children being support by the organisation.

All staff and volunteers must agree to abide by the code of conduct which specifies the standards of conduct required when working with children.

Training and supervision

Training and education are important to ensure that everyone at Mercy Connect understands that child safety is everyone's responsibility.

The organisational culture aims for all staff and volunteers (in addition to parents/carers and children) to feel confident and comfortable in discussing any allegations of child abuse or child safety concerns. All staff and volunteers are trained to identify, assess, and minimise risks of child abuse and to detect potential signs of child abuse.

Staff and volunteers are also supported through ongoing supervision to: develop their skills to protect children from abuse; and promote the cultural safety of Aboriginal children, the cultural safety of children from linguistically and/or diverse backgrounds, and the safety of children with a disability.

New employees and volunteers will be supervised regularly to ensure they understand Mercy Connect's commitment to child safety and that everyone has a role to play in protecting children from abuse, as well as checking that their behaviour towards children is safe and appropriate (please refer to the code of conduct to understand appropriate behaviour further). Any inappropriate behaviour will be reported through appropriate channels, including the NSW Ombudsman, the Department of Health and Human Services and Police, depending on the severity and urgency of the matter.

Recruitment

Mercy Connect takes all reasonable steps to employ skilled people to work with children. Selection criteria and advertisements are developed which clearly demonstrate commitment to child safety and an awareness of social and legislative responsibilities. The organisation understands that when recruiting staff and volunteers, there are ethical as well as legislative obligations.

Mercy Connect actively encourage applications from Aboriginal peoples, people from culturally and/or linguistically diverse backgrounds and people with a disability.

All people engaged in child-related work, including volunteers, are required to hold a Working with Children Check and to provide evidence of this Check.

Mercy Connect conducts reference checks and police record checks to ensure that the right people are being recruited. Police record checks are used only for the purposes of recruitment and are discarded after the recruitment process is complete. If during the recruitment process a person's records indicate a criminal history then the person will be given the opportunity to provide further information and context.

Privacy

As an organisation Mercy Connect is bound by the Australian Privacy Principles in the Privacy Act 1988 which regulates how we may collect, use, disclose and store personal information, and how individuals may access and correct personal information held by them. This is covered by GV 014 Privacy and Confidentiality Policy.

Information exchange

Under chapter 16A of the Children and Young Persons (Care and Protection) Act 1998, Mercy Connect staff can exchange information that relates to a child or young person's safety, welfare or wellbeing, with prescribed agencies. Information can be provided whether or not the child/young person or the parents/guardians provide consent.

The Privacy Officer has the authority to release information and will be provide in writing to the requesting body. All requests and responses will be stored securely within participants' files.

Legislative responsibilities

Mercy Connect takes its legal responsibilities seriously, including:

- Failure to disclose for Victoria: Reporting child sexual abuse is a community-wide responsibility. All adults in Victoria who have a reasonable belief that an adult has committed a sexual offence against a child under 16 have an obligation to report that information to the police.
- Failure to disclose for NSW: Note that while it is mandatory to report children aged 0-15 years at risk of significant harm, it is not mandatory to report young people aged 16-17 years or unborn children. Professional judgement should be used in deciding whether concerns about the safety, welfare or wellbeing of an unborn child or a young person warrant a report to the Child Protection Helpline
- Failure to protect: People of authority in our organisation will commit an offence if they know of a substantial risk of child sexual abuse and have the power or responsibility to reduce or remove the risk, but negligently fail to do so.

Risk management

Mercy Connect endeavours to protect all children when a risk is identified. In addition to general occupational health and safety risks, the organisation proactively manages safeguarding risks to children.

There are risk management strategies in place to identify, assess, and take steps to minimise child safeguarding risks, which include risks posed by physical environments (for example, any doors that can lock), and online environments (for example, no staff or volunteer is to have contact with a child in organisations on social media).

Further information

It is important that all workers are aware that when dealing with children involved in any issue relating to abuse that they are not questioned around the abuse. This may hinder the formal investigation into the incident. Additional information from children should not be coerced, a record of their disclosure is kept which can be used as part of the formal investigation.
